

Do you want a Spreadsheet or need a Call Schedule?

Medical practices run on efficient process and depend on using the right tools for the job... except when it comes to call scheduling. Too often we find physicians, schedulers, and administrators wasting valuable time and resources using Excel spreadsheets or Microsoft word calendars to try to piece together a call solution.

So do you want an Excel spreadsheet to manually manage call or do you need a tool and process that will make Call Scheduling dramatically easier?

"We used to manage call with an Excel Spreadsheet and Word Calendar and we wasted a TON of time trying to make call fair and equitable. Every time a provider requested or a new schedule would come out, we'd have to start the tally count over—it was very frustrating. Now, Call Scheduler does it for us and it allows me to keep things fair and equitable."

--Reva Foy, Practice Administrator
Clinical Cardio Specialists, OH

Changing your workflow process may seem daunting but the switch is easy to Call Scheduler:

"The transition from paper/spreadsheets to Call Scheduler was surprisingly easy. The training provided by Call Scheduler was thorough and the product is user friendly... the tool is very intuitive."

--Jenna Anderberg, Scheduler
7 Day Clinic, ND

And the benefits of Call Scheduler go far beyond simply keeping an accurate schedule:

"We lacked process and protocol for tracking provider requests—requests were managed via email, voicemail and slips of paper. Mistakes and complaints always followed. Now using Call Scheduler we have a ready-built system for managing requests and now we rarely get complaints."

--Dr. Fishman, Practice Partner
Cardiac Specialists, CT

You Need a Solution
because a spreadsheet cannot:

▲ Produce Tallies :

Reporting tools that keep track of vacations, holidays served, and days of allow schedulers to keep a transparent and fair call schedule.

▲ Manage Provider Requests : If

you manage day-off requests via slips of paper and outdated spreadsheets, you'll find real value in Call Scheduler's ability to keep track of all provider requests.

▲ Create a Schedule Template :

Stop creating your schedule by hand and start ahead of the game with a n easy to use template; saving you hours and stress.

▲ Provide Mobile Access : You and your providers can view and request from anywhere with an internet connection—including your smart phone.